

Eight Anglo Ships Are Sunk in North Sea, Nazis Report

Denmark Says Air Battle
Carried Out Today Over German Base on Island
of Sylt

Finns Kill 200

Soviet Soldiers Are Left Upon Field After Fight at Ladoga

(By The Associated Press)
German and British aircraft provided the high spot of European war activity today as the Finnish-Russian conflict took a breathing spell of inaction such as kept the western front quiet for months.

The German high command announced that eight British vessels were sunk in the North Sea yesterday during suddenly intensified air raids which some British experts feared were a forerunner of an imminent blitzkrieg—the much-discussed Nazi tactic of lightning war which thus far has not materialized in the west.

Acknowledged German air attacks on 11 vessels, the British admiralty said only two had been sunk. British reports described new night scouting flights over northern Germany and said royal air force planes were continuing to patrol German bases in the Frisian Islands to choke off Nazi mine-laying activities.

New Air Battle

Reports reaching Denmark of cannonading and glimpses of searchlights indicated that a new air battle perhaps was fought over the Island of Sylt, northern German air base, early today. Numerous planes were sighted in the region.

After six weeks of wintry warfare, Finland and Russia slackened
the pace of their conflict, but there were indications it might be revived with new fury at any moment. Reports reaching Copenhagen said 200,000 Russians were massed on the Karelian Isthmus,
where it was believed the Red army might launch a new offensive on Finnish defenses which have stood off concentrated attacks
since the invasion started.

Two Hundred Killed

Two hundred Russian dead were left on a battlefield north of Lake Ladoga today when Finnish forces dispersed a Soviet battalion and took 40 prisoners, a Finnish communique announced.

Bitter cold and at least temporary exhaustion were factors which seemed to explain the Finnish-Russian breathing spell. Russia acknowledged her forces had withdrawn on the east central front where the Finns have reported routing two Russian army divisions within the past two weeks.

The Finnish delegate to Geneva,
Rudolf Holsti, observed the 20th birthday anniversary of the League of Nations by thanking the international organizations for "practical aid" sent Finland.

Preparing for Union

Closely watching the course of the Finnish-Russian war, Italy and Hungary worked in concert to prepare against any similar occurrence in southeastern Europe,
where both Rumania and Hungary
have common frontiers with the Soviet Union.

At Italy's urging, Hungary bent
her efforts toward some settlement with Rumania of territorial claims arising from Rumanian acquisition of Transylvania in the World War adjustments.

In hope that the Balkans would keep internal peace to present a united front against any outside attacks, Italy was said to have encouraged Hungary to soft-pedal her demands now and try to get a pledge from Rumania that some revision would be made when Europe is again peaceful.

Western front fighting remained slight. "Somewhat livelier artillery activity" was reported by Germany while the French said German hand grenade attacks on two isolated posts west of the Vos-ges mountains had been repulsed.

Beetle Parley

Status of Quarantine and Help to States Will Be Discussed Feb. 27

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—A conference to determine whether to withdraw the federal quarantine against the Japanese beetle
and end cooperation with the states in the campaign against the insect will be held here February 27.

Dr. Lee A. Strong, chief of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, called the meeting to hear whether those interested believed the benefits were worth the costs.

The agriculture department said
that the federal-state program, started in 1919, has retarded the spread of the beetle, but cannot entirely stop it. A survey last year showed spread of the beetle
in New York.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Legislative leaders, struggling for a solution to state financial problems, face prolonged secret conferences despite taxpayers' protests against the appearance of a Republican-Democratic "budget deal."

Expecting the closed sessions with Governor Lehman will be extended almost until the January 30 deadline for submission of the budget, party heads, nevertheless, campaigning for early action on scores of important bills.

Hanstein Releases Appointments for Industrial Group

Five Men Will Formulate Plans for Permanent Organization in City
to Boom Business

Chairman Allan L. Hanstein of the industrial and convention bureau of the city, announced today he had named the committee of five men who will formulate plans for forming a city-wide permanent organization for the industrial advancement of Kingston.

The five men he has selected are Morris Samter, Bart C. Van Ingen, James A. Dwyer, James L.
Rowe and William A. Van Valkenburgh. The choice of a chairman for the group he has left to the committee.

At a largely attended meeting
of interested citizens held the latter part of 1939 in the city hall, it was decided to have such a committee appointed for the purpose of formulating plans for a city-wide organization.

The appointment of a committee was left in the hands of Mr.
Hanstein.

Kingston at the present time has no city-wide organization for the purpose of boosting the city,
although it has three active business men's associations, the Uptown, Central and Downtown Business Men's groups.

Admiral Advises Guam Hazardous

Vinson Says He Would Challenge Navy on Right to Proceed

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The
reviving controversy over naval improvements in the harbor at Guam prompted Admiral Harold Stark to advise a house committee today that naval ships and seaplanes and commercial aircraft would use the port even under the "hazardous circumstances" resulting from lack of improvements.

Stark, chief of naval operations,
had told the house naval affairs committee already that authorization for the improvements was unnecessary. The navy already has full authority, he said, so that congress has but to furnish the money.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of
the committee said that he would challenge on the house floor the navy's right to proceed without specific authorization in event a proposed $4,000,000 appropriation for the work was brought to a vote.

Stark did not detail the "hazardous circumstances" surrounding use of the unimproved harbor. He said that navy ships and seaplanes
and Pan-American Airways, which operates trans-Pacific lines, would combine to use Guam whether or not improvements were made.

A double-barreled congressional investigation of naval appropriations, covering expenditures for the current year as well as those proposed in the 1941 budget, appeared imminent.

A statement by Admiral Stark
that the navy wanted the money
to improve the harbor at Guam
so seaplanes might land there brought an intimation from Senator Borah (R., Idaho) of a searching inquiry into the new budgetary requests.

At the same time, Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.) announced that he would call his appropriations
sub-committee into session in about a week to find out in detail
how the navy is spending the money which it obtained last year.

Pointing out that Congress had rejected the Guam project last year, Borah said yesterday the new request was likely to rekindle the controversy. Borah has contended that any move to fortify Guam
might be considered a warlike affront to Japan. The small Pacific island possession of the United States is about 1,500 miles from Tokyo.

Planes for Canada

Sweet Grass, Mont., Jan. 10 (AP)— Nineteen bombing planes have been towed across the boundary
for delivery to Canada.

Wicks' Demand

The latest demand for such an investigation, as legislators closed their desks for the week, came from Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican, who proposed a group of five senators and four assemblymen look into the problem and report to the Legislature by February 15, 1941. A $50,000 appropriation was asked.

Democratic Senate Minority Leader John J. Dunnigan, sponsor of the pari-mutuel bill designed to increase the state's racetracks
from five to nine and enlarge present structures, indicated he would force no action on his measure until after submission of Governor Lehman's budget discloses the state's financial condition.

Proposed revision of the Con-stitution's judiciary article, designed to eliminate "objectionable features" of a similar measure rejected by the 1938 electorate. The appellate division would gain administrative control.

Despite the call by many legislators for a "stop-gap" pari-mutuel bill to prevent loss of revenue from the betting machines this year, a Republican bloc siding with some Democrats pressed for abandonment of the entire legislation pending a thorough commission study.

Central Hudson to Install
7 More '600' Lamps;
New Lights on Albany
Ave. Glow Tonight

Improved street lighting of Hurley and Washington avenues was approved by the Board of Public Works at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon when the board authorized the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. to install seven additional 600-candle-power lamps on Washington avenue, and a similar number on Hurley avenue. The cost of the increased lights, it was stated, had been included in the 1940 tax budget.

The new street lighting system
on Albany avenue was announced
as completed and would be turned on this evening. The new lighting system had been installed from Broadway to Manor avenue the latter part of 1939 when it was placed in operation. New street lights had since been positioned from Manor avenue to the city line, and are now ready to be placed in operation.

With the installation of additional street lamps on Hurley and Washington avenue it was said that all of the "through" thoroughfares in the city would be adequately lighted at night.

Wrentham Street Light
The board also authorized the installation of a 200-candlepower lamp on Wrentham street to replace a present smaller lamp; a 600-candlepower lamp on North Manor avenue; a 600 candlepower lamp on Flatbush avenue, between Foxhall and Albany avenues, and a 600-candlepower lamp at Flat-

Sahler Sanitarium Will Become Hotel

Smith Says 5,000
Employees Dropped
By U. S. Agencies

But, He Points Out, Total
of Civilian Workers Is Increased 9,470 Due to Defense, Embargo

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—While President Roosevelt and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) continued their argument over government economy, budget director Harold
D. Smith said today that the federal agencies reorganized by the chief executive last summer cut 5,066 employees off the payroll in three months.

Smith said, however, that the total civilian personnel of the government increased 9,470 to 937-357 from July 31 to November 1,
because of additions in agencies
connected with national defense and neutrality.

Mr. Roosevelt cited figures yesterday to show that a program
outlined by Senator Taft (R-Ohio)
for balancing the multi-billion dollar budget would save only $8,000-000 yearly.

That would include, he said, the elimination of the National Planning Board, which he contended would save the government a lot of money in the long run, and the Disaster Loan Corporation, which he pointed out spent most of its money in Ohio flood relief.

The President had offered a "handsome prize" to Taft, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, if he could show how to balance the budget. Taft responded in a speech in Chicago
last week.

The presidential rejoinder came
at a press conference late yesterday, with every indication that he was not ready to award the prize.

Circuit Court Says Wagner Act Doesn't Require Written Contracts

Chicago, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Wagner act does not require collective bargaining contracts to be in writing, in the opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The court's view was announced yesterday in a decision reversing an order by the National Labor Relations Board in the Inland Steel Company case.

In its order of November 12,
1938, the NLRB ordered Inland to withdraw recognition of an independent union, bargain with the CIO steel workers organizing committee, and put into writing any agreement that might be reached.

The court's opinion, written by Judge J. Earl Major with Judges
William M. Sparks and Evan A.
Evans concurring, held that the Wagner act requires collective bargaining but not an agreement.
"The board recognizes that the signed agreements are the

Use as Health Spot Will End January 14; Will Be Known as
'Wiltwyck Arms'

The Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium, established by the late Dr. C.
O. Sahler in 1895 and since then conducted as a sanitarium will cease to be operated as a sanitarium on January 14 and will open shortly thereafter as an American plan hotel catering to residential guests as well as transients.

The name will be changed to
"The Wiltwyck Arms."

Theodore G. Peck, 3rd., president and manager of the corporation, today informed a Freeman reporter that he planned to open The Wiltwyck Arms as an American plan hotel as soon as certain alterations were made and that he expected to hold a formal opening when the alterations were completed. Meanwhile guests will be received at the hotel.

Since 1895 when the late Dr. C.
O. Sahler established the Dr.
C. O. Sahler Sanitarium the premises located at 61 Wall street surrounded by spacious grounds and shaded in summer by large trees, has been operated as a sanitarium catering to persons suffering from nervous diseases or desiring a complete rest. For the past two years Mr. Peck has been general manager of the sanitarium and for some time past president of the corporation.

Completely Remodeled
During the time Mr. Peck has been manager the premises have been completely remodeled and renovated, a new sprinkler system has been installed and every room in the place has been refurnished with hotel type of furnishings. There will be 60 rooms available, some without baths,
some private rooms with semi-private bath, rooms with private bath and also suites of rooms with bath.

Notice of a change in name and purpose of the corporation has been filed in Albany with the department of state whereby the name of the corporation is changed
from the Dr. Sahler Sanitarium, Inc., to the Wiltwyck Arms, Inc., and the purposes of the corporation have been changed, eliminating that of operation of a sanitarium and including that of operation of a hotel.

Guests at the sanitarium were notified several weeks ago that on and after January 14 they would have to seek accommodations
elsewhere if they required sanitarium care.

While the sanitarium will cease
to operate as such on January 14,
Mr. Peck will not close the premises while alterations are being made but will operate as a hotel and cater to guests. Today he said he expected that alterations would be completed and The Wiltwyck Arms would be in full operation
before February first.

The Wiltwyck Arms will operate
as an American plan hotel serving meals to guests and will also cater to transients and ala-carte meals will be available at all times.

"This record as a whole," the court added, "discloses the danger of imposing upon a single agency multiple duties of prosecutor, judge, jury and executioner."

Learns He Can't Pull Louther's Stunt

San Francisco, Jan. 10 (AP)— Pretty Isabelle Deshler says it's all off—her "romance" with John B. Adams, the 32-year-old Romeo who took to the law courts in an effort to prevent his prospective mother-in-law
from cramping his romantic style.

"I do not love Mr. Adams and I have no intention of ever marrying him," Isabelle announced
curtly last night.

This put a decided chill on the Romeo and Juliet affair
which Adams hoped would end
like a similar case in New York involving George Lowther and the former Eileen Herrick, who were married last week.

Adams has a superior court order compelling Mrs. Deshler to bring her 24-year-old daughter to court Friday so Judge Lyle T. Jacks can determine if Juliet is being kept from Romeo against her will.

Cash to Go For Work In Progress

Neutrality Patrols, Big Army Enrollments
and Counter-Spying
to Be Financed

Approves Navy
Naval Purchases Given Favorable Treatment
in Report

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The House appropriations committee approved, in general, today President Roosevelt's recommendations for immediate emergency defense
and neutrality outlays and proposed that Congress provide $267-197,908 for the army, navy, coast guard and Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The money would go for work already started or expected to be undertaken during the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30,
in connection with neutrality patrols, increases in and training of military personnel, and counter-espionage.

The whole outlay was proposed
under the President's proclamation
of a state of limited national emergency at the start of European war
last September.

Reports and Cuts
Reporting an emergency appropriation bill to the House, the committee cut $4,801,615 from $271-999,523 recommended by the executive branch. The largest reduction was $2,024,572 in the item of food for the army. The committee said there had been an excess appropriated for this purpose in earlier appropriation bills for this fiscal year, making the cut more or less a bookkeeping transaction.

The committee's approval of the administration's recommendations
almost without change was characterized by some legislators as not giving an accurate indication of the group's economy-mindedness
in this election year. The committee whacked away at a number of money measures last session, and subsequent bills later this term are expected to be a better test of committee sentiment.

The White House recommendation
for the present emergency
bill—which the House will consider tomorrow—were backed with the argument that world conditions made them necessary. The appropriations recommended by the committee for the four branches were: Army $116,218,345, navy
$145,082,238, Coast Guard $4,222-325, Federal Bureau of Investigation $1,475,000.

Naval Appropriation
In addition to these appropriations, the committee also approved an authorization for the navy to proceed with purchases of $2,450-000 worth of ordnance supplies—
such as torpedoes, guns, ammunition and powder.

The proposed funds would provide 16,969 more enlisted men for the regular army, bringing its strength to 227,000; 41,000 officers
and men for the Nation I Guard,
bringing its strength to 251,000;
28,900 men for the regular navy,
bringing its total to 145,000; 6,000
men for the marine corps, raising it to 25,000; and 2,000 for the Coast Guard, raising it to 10,866.

The navy would get $28,596,000
to buy 518 aircraft for use on neutrality patrols.

Taxes Not Enough
Hanes Says U. S. Must Reduce Spending, Cut
Levy on Profit

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 10 (AP)— John W. Hanes, former undersecretary of the treasury, contends the federal budget cannot be balanced by collection of additional taxes alone but must undergo a reduction in expenditures.

"Eventually the federal budget must be balanced and there are only three ways to do that—by new taxes, by reducing expenses
and by a combination of the two plus economic recovery," he told 150 bankers and business executives at a banquet.

Though Hanes avoided reference to the coming political campaign he asserted the present
capital stock and excess profits
taxes should be eliminated.

Hanes retires February 1 to private life as a broker and business executive.

Shoe Plant Closes While Workmen Hold Celebration

Johnson City, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—All plants of the big Endicott-Johnson Shoe Corporation closed today as a majority of 15,000 workers who yesterday rejected unionization, 5 to 1, left their benches and swept through the streets in celebration.

The vote was 1612 for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor; 1079 in favor of a Congress of Industrial Organization union, and 12,693 for no affiliation.

As the celebration gained momentum, with parades, back-firing automobiles and much shouting, merchants of this city, once rechristened Johnson City in honor of George F. Johnson, 82-year-old head of the firm, closed their establishments and joined in the fun.

Johnson, for whom special prayer services have been conducted by Protestant ministers, Catholic priests and Salvation Army workers, was seriously ill with pneumonia in a hospital.

Charles F. Johnson, Jr., vice president and general manager, commenting on yesterday's vote under direction of the labor relations board, declared:

"The policies of the company have been proved sound. They couldn't shake the loyalty and faith of the workers in George F."

Before the vote was announced last night, agents of both the CIO and AFL announced they were considering a protest because of "anti-union" demonstration.

Frank McGrath, New York city CIO organizer, viewed the result with gloom. "Talk about Harlan, Ky.—this town is different but just as tough," he asserted.

Charles F. Johnson, Jr., said he went from "factory to factory trying to sell the idea of keeping at work today, apparently I'm no good as a salesman."

The company operates about a score of plants in Johnson City, and nearby Binghamton, Endicott and Owego. The election was the second largest ever conducted by the NLRB.

George F. Johnson, who began work as an 18-week shoe worker in Binghamton, pioneered in employee profit-sharing. He provided community stores, free libraries, parks, and other facilities for employee use. Last year he was given the Forbes award as "the man who has done most to humanize business."

Smith Says 5,000 Employees Dropped By U. S. Agencies

Taft quickly retorted with a statement saying:

"The truth is, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt does not want to balance the budget."

"The president has picked out some of the examples I gave of bureaus which might be eliminated but says that they only total $8,000,000 which, in New Deal style, he considers to be nothing."

"He says nothing of the 75,000 extra employees of the Department of Agriculture, of the extra $1,200,000,000 he has added to the federal payrolls; of the savings of $375,000,000 which I pointed out could be effected in relief; or any of the other more important items."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed yesterday that new reorganization steps are in progress and said they are expected to increase the savings in administrative costs to about $25,000,000.

Cut Off the Air

Shreveport, La., Jan. 10 (AP)—Radio station officials said Governor Earl K. Long was cut off the air here "several times" last night for use of words like "hell" and "damn" in a political speech. "We attempted to eliminate such words," said John McCormack, manager of Station WKII in Shreveport. The effort was abandoned later on in the speech, he said, and the address allowed to go over the air. Long, a brother of the late Huey P. Long, U. S. Senator and former governor, is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in a primary next Tuesday.

and also on Albany avenue from Foxhall avenue to the city line. The superintendent called attention to the fact that there were no sidewalks or curbs on those sections of the two streets.

After some suggestion the board decided to refer both communications to City Engineer James Norton to see if it were not possible to have the work done as a WPA project in the spring. Property owners will be seen and asked if they would contribute the flagging and curbing and the work would be done by WPA labor.

Superintendent Steuding also called attention to the need of a storm water sewer in that portion of Albany avenue from Foxhall avenue to the city line, so that the street could be properly drained. That was also referred to City Engineer Norton for consideration.

New Equipment

It was reported that the three new ash trucks to replace the present trucks were ordered and expected here by February 1.

The new snow loader to be used in the central section of the city has been received, and is ready to be placed in operation when needed.

More Transactions And Prices Drop

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Stock market prices drifted a little lower today although here and there support kept selected issues above water.

From the moderate opening, buying was highly selective. Toward the final hour price changes were fractional. Sales were at the rate of about 500,000 shares.

Steels, favored at first, were inclined to retreat under light selling pressure as did the rails and some of the utilities.

Foreign markets tended lower. Bonds were uneven and commodities mixed.

Backward issues included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, American Telephone, Cerro de Pasco, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide, Santa Fe, Sears Roebuck and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Resistant were Public Service of New Jersey, Studebaker, du Pont, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois, Cluett, Peabody and American Smelting.

In the curb Aluminum Co. and Chesapeake pushed ahead while Alabama Great Southern and Mead Johnson skidded a little.

Douglas Aircraft, on the big board, picked up around a point at one time following announcement American Air Lines had ordered 15 of the new four-engine transports, said to be the largest land planes in the world.

Dial Telephones For High Falls And Rosendale

Modernization of the facilities of the New York Telephone Co. in the territory served by the Rosendale and High Falls exchanges, with their approximately 550 subscribers, with special reference to the installation of the dial system of phones, is approaching completion and it is planned to start operations under the new system by the end of February, according to Charles E. Burnett, manager of the Kingston office of the company.

This is a continuation of the work which has been under way for several years in the smaller communities of this part of the state. In Ulster county dial phones were installed in Shokan seven years ago and since then the system has been put into operation in Esopus, Pine Hill, Highland and New Paltz.

The work at High Falls and Rosendale has been under way since last summer. New brick buildings of colonial type architecture have been erected and central office dial equipment has been installed in the buildings. This equipment automatically makes the connection when a telephone user dials the number of the person to whom he wishes to talk. All outside telephone plants in this section have been given over thoroughly, poles and wires replaced when necessary and a considerable amount of additional cable erected to replace open wires.

Installation men are now engaged in putting in the new dial telephones, making necessary changes at the customer's premises and giving complete explanation of the use of the dial, while instruction pamphlets are being supplied to customers, for future handy reference.

The old instruments are being left in temporarily, both the old and the new being connected with the line and on incoming calls only the bell on the dial instrument rings. Customers are cautioned, however, that until dial service is officially opened and becomes effective only the old instruments should be used, either to make or receive calls. Subscribers will be notified of the exact time and day that the dial service becomes effective.

The change to dial service requires the changing of all telephone numbers, inasmuch as the design of the equipment is such that four digit numbers must be used. Part line letters will be discontinued. The last or fourth digit of the dial number determines the ringing code for the particular telephone. Prior to date of change customers will receive special directory containing all the new numbers. A special feature of the directory will be the listing of fire hall numbers of each fire district in block form, under the word, "Fire." The idea is to give prominence to the fire numbers and facilitate prompt report of fires.

Out of Town Calls

All out-of-town calls from Rosendale and High Falls will be handled by telephone operators, who also will take care of requests for assistance, give information regarding new and changed numbers, receive reports of telephones out of order, etc. Connection with the operator will be by dialing "0", instead of turning a crank, as at present.

Because of the community of interest between Rosendale and High Falls, equipment in the two exchanges is being arranged so that by dialing a special code subscribers may dial each other direct without assistance from the operator.

Kerkhonsk Next

According to Mr. Burnett work is also under way for installation of the new system at Kerkhonsk and present indications are that the dial phones will be put into use in that section about the first of April.

Ruzzo Buys Small Parcel From First Dutch Church

At a special congregational meeting of the First Dutch Church last night members voted 31 to 18 to sell to Sisto Ruzzo, for $550, a triangular strip of land adjoining the southerly side of the former Byer building on Fair street.

The strip involved is 3.28 feet in width on Fair street and 1.19 feet wide at the rear of the Byer lot, with a length of 82.52 feet. Separated from the rest of the church property by a wall, it was leased by the late Frank Byer to allow for a sidewalk to the rear of his property. The sale of the strip, which is contained on old maps, being erected on the southerly side of the former Byer building, must have court approval before becoming final.

FLATBUSH

Flatbush, Jan. 10—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Flatbush Reformed Church met last Tuesday at the home of the president, Mrs. Harry Carle. The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. Harry Davis. Plans were made to hold a cafeteria supper Wednesday evening, January 17, beginning at 5:30 p. m. Roast beef and scalloped oysters will be among the good things the ladies are planning to serve. A cordial invitation is extended to all to come and dine with the ladies.

The young people of this community have been skating on Lake Katrine. Several skating parties were held during the holidays, when franks and marshmallows were roasted.

All the young folks are back to school again. Those who attend schools away from home have also returned to their respective schools: Miss Gladys Klotke has resumed her studies at Cortland State Normal; Miss Carolyn Ryder at Beaver College at Jenkintown, Pa., and Willis Ryder at Mt. Herman School in Massachusetts.

Clinton Lasher, who is employed in Washington, D. C., and who spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lasher, has returned to Washington.

Marcus Moore, who is a navy recruit at Providence, R. I., spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kukuk. Mr. Moore expects to be sent aboard ship soon.

The Flatbush Home Bureau met last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alvin Palen. Mrs. Howard Osterhout gave the first lesson on "Speech Improvement," which was very instructive and greatly enjoyed by those present. The ladies of the Home Bureau planned to hold an evening of games Friday evening, January 12, beginning at 8 o'clock. A nominal charge will be made and refreshments will be served. The ladies invite people of the community to attend.

John Edinger, Sr., spent several days recently with his daughters, Virginia and Charlotte, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kukuk.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Flatbush Reformed Church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Christian M. Ducker on Friday afternoon, January 12 at 2 p. m. Mrs. Adolf Elling is the leader. All members are urged to be present.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the T. X. T. Club was held Tuesday evening, January 9. The evening was spent playing games, after which refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klotke, Sr., attended the funeral of a cousin in Long Island last week.

Avoid over-heating new houses. It takes at least 60, and often 90 days to remove from the house all the moisture introduced therein through the plastering operation. If heat is turned on suddenly and in too great volume the reaction of the house will be violent. "Settlement" will take place too quickly. Plaster will dry suddenly and the result will be unnecessarily wide openings in wood joints and plaster cracks which might be avoided if the drying-out process were more moderate and occurred over a longer period of time.

Births Exceed Deaths in City

There were 728 births and 598 deaths recorded in Kingston during 1939, according to the annual reports of the officers of the Board of Health which were submitted at the regular monthly meeting of the board Tuesday evening, at which only routine business was transacted.

Of the births recorded 308 were non-resident, and of the deaths 229 were non-resident. There were 25 stillbirths reported in the city.

In 1938 there were 655 births and 632 deaths recorded here.

It was also brought out in the reports of the officers of the board that there were three typhoid carriers residing in Kingston. All three were men who were self-supporting, but not engaged in any activity where they were required to handle any food offered for public consumption.

In a discussion of the city's water supply it was stated that Cooper Lake, which supplies the city with its water, was three-quarters full, and that as much water was being consumed at the present time as during the summer months when considerable water is used for sprinkling purposes. This was due, it was said, to householders running the faucets all night to keep the pipes in the house from freezing.

During 1939 there were eight deaths by suicide, strangulation, drowning and poison in Kingston, and one death from senility.

The annual report of the bureau of child hygiene was filed with the board. The report follows:

Bureau of Child Hygiene

During the year 1939 the Bureau of Child Hygiene has continued its work, the purpose of which is to teach and encourage the best possible care among the maternal, infant and pre-school population of Kingston.

From January 1, 1939 to January 1, 1940, the nurses have made 2,110 visits on infants under one year of age, 924 visits on pre-school children, i. e. those between one and six years of age and 547 visits on expectant mothers.

Twenty-four Child Health Consultations have been held at 25 East O'Reilly street by Dr. Margaret Whiteside, state pediatrician, to examine babies and children, who would have been seen by a physician only in case of illness.

To teach the need of dental care in early childhood 52 clinics have been held by the dental hygienist to examine and clean the teeth of children under school age. Fifty clinics in charge of dentists have been held to correct the defects found in these pre-school children and in prenatal cases who otherwise could not afford dental care.

A total of 409 babies have been born to Kingston residents in 1939.

During the three year period in which the bureau has been active the infant loss has been lower than ever before. Even so it is too high. With continued supervision of the health of mothers and babies, it is to be expected that Kingston will show a much lower mortality rate.

A prenatal consultation will be held each month during the following year. The first consultation was held in December.

Reportable Diseases

During 1939 the following reportable diseases were recorded in the health department:

Measles	88
German measles	4
Scarlet fever	35
Chickenpox	167
Whooping cough	46
Pneumonia	96
Vincent's angina	23
Diphtheria (non-resident)	1
Typhoid fever (non-resident)	2
Poliomyelitis (non-resident)	1
Undulant fever	2

The monthly report for December showed 59 births and 46 deaths in Kingston.

Bills were read and referred to the common council for payment.

'Golgotha' on Friday At the Auditorium

Arrangements have been completed for a special matinee for school children Friday afternoon, January 12, at 3:15 o'clock, in the Municipal Auditorium for the presentation of the talking movie "Golgotha," the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll has announced. The evening performance will be given at St. James Methodist Church at 8 o'clock Friday evening. An hour and 40 minutes will be required for each showing.

The film portrays the life and crucifixion of Christ and follows with fidelity the New Testament accounts. Produced in Europe at a cost of $800,000, "Golgotha" has a cast of thousands. All of the important characters are portrayed by the finest actors.

Although the matinee is intended primarily for school children, adults who will not be able to attend the evening presentation will be admitted.

PLANS BIGGER U. S. WARSHIPS

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, tells the house naval committee that present studies indicate the United States will build 50,000-ton or 52,000-ton battleships. Of the considerable talk about 62,000-ton vessels he said that in his opinion they would be "either too big or not big enough."

TOURISTS AND VACATIONISTS

Members of the newly formed West of the Hudson Association feel that there is a great opportunity to increase vacationists' business and also to bring new industries into this area. Directors declare that with the short work week and the war in Europe there is an opportunity such as never before existed.

If this movement to lead recreation and to attract new industries here is to be successful, the wholehearted cooperation of enterprising residents of the nine counties must be given. Competition today is strong throughout the country with many sections improving their roads and increasing their program for entertainment and recreation.

But no state or section need envy the tourist and vacationist successes of other places. This is a profitable enterprise which grows with the satisfaction of patrons. A happy vacation in one place not only makes the vacationer eager to return at his earliest opportunity but makes him plan visits to other sections.

Americans in recent years have been developing a new feeling for their own land, admiration for its variety of climate, scenery and production, and respect and good feeling for the other Americans met on such travels. There isn't a state in the Union that doesn't have much to offer visitors—in historic associations, in recreational delights, in interesting native wild life, in rivers or forests, or mountains, or plains, or beaches, or quiet valleys, or fascinating deserts. There is nothing to deplore in the fact that getting acquainted is a mutually profitable process.

The state of Washington was pleased to learn from the current report of its progress commission that it entertained nearly two million visitors during 1939 who spent about $90,000,000 while there. Many of the visitors came in response to the inviting advertising campaigns of the commission, the Evergreen Playground Association and transportation lines.

FEWEST LYNCHINGS

In the fifty-seven years since Tuskegee Institute began to keep a record of lynchings in the United States, more than 5,000 of them have taken place. The victims have been white men as well as negroes. The lynchings have occurred in the North as well as the South. The six New England states alone seem to have had no lynchings at all in that period. All the others have one or more mob crimes to their dishonor.

Yet when Adolf Hitler and other foreign critics point to lynching in the United States as a national evil they are ignoring certain very important facts.

In the first place, lynching is not condoned by right-thinking citizens in any section of the country or any state in the Union. Lynching never has been a government policy. The forces of law and justice have striven for years to end the evil. Officers of the law in many cases have prevented lynchings at the risk of their own lives.

Great progress has been made. In 1939 there were only three lynchings in the whole United States. There were seven in 1938, eight in 1937 and nine in 1936. Those figures encourage the belief that there will soon come a year when no lynchings occur. That will be as great a blessing to the people thus saved from the brutalizing effect of participation in mob violence as to the persons who might have been their victims.

The House of Representatives has voted 256 to 144 to begin consideration of an Anti-Lynching Bill. The vote as always in the past disclosed a geographical alignment with Democrats and Republicans of the North, Middle West and West lining up behind the bill and the opposition coming almost wholly from the South.

Southerners since Reconstruction days have resisted efforts to enact anti-lynching bills as invasion of States' rights and termed the measures a bid for the Negro vote of the North. They have long contended such bills are unconstitutional.

The bill, bearing the name of Representative Gavagan, Democrat of New York, who represents the Harlem district, would make it a felony for State or local police official not to make "all diligent effort" to protect any one in his custody from mob violence, and makes the official subject to a Federal court fine up to $5,000, or a year's imprisonment. It also makes a State subdivision having police powers civilly liable for a lynching.

BURDENS OF MIDDLE AGE

Dr. Raymond Pearl, addressing the American Statistical Association, suggests that the people who "do the work and pay the bills and taxes" may have to "gang up" on the old and the young. The latter groups, he says, are getting more than their share, and the old people particularly are conspiring to benefit themselves unduly at the expense of the middle-aged workers and earners.

"No social trend could be more obvious," he remarks, "than the increasingly vocal demands of the old folks that they be adequately taken care of when they are in that terminal phase of their earthly career." The founding fathers, he says, were wise enough to know that boys and girls under 21 were too young to vote, but they failed to realize that old people might be too foolish to vote. He regards the growing demand for large old-age pensions as evidence of such foolishness.

This is obviously coming to be a serious problem—not the right of old people to vote, which is not questioned, but the power over the public purse wielded by large groups of elderly people.

It is often overlooked that large pensions for the old, who are a rapidly increasing part of the population, have to be paid by the workers and earners, and therefore may put a very heavy burden on the young and middle-aged. They also tend to discourage thrifty provision for old age.

The last decade has been the hardest. Now we're toughened up and can stand 'most anything—reserving a right to grumble, of course.

We take off our hats, scarfs and earmuffs to those Finns, who have been fighting and winning in a temperature of 40 degrees below zero with less than three hours of daylight.

Now that the New Year's headache is over, up and at 'em!

DELIRIUM CONFUSION IN OLD AGE

It is but a short time ago since it was considered normal for middle-aged and older persons to lose their teeth, develop rheumatism, and stiffness of joints. Today it is known that proper diets, regular visits to the dentist, and a little daily exercise such as walking of a few holes of golf will keep our older folk limber and more youthful.

However, the idea still persists that it is 'natural' for older people to become forgetful and confused; that nothing can be done about it.

In speaking about acute confusion states of old age in Southern Medical Journal, Dr. G. W. Robison, Jr., Kansas City, says that delirium and confusion in old people are many times brought on by low grade infection and there seems to be no direct relation between the degree of mental disability and the actual organic change of advancing years. Direction of treatment toward these toxic (poison) states by the use of injections of glucose into the veins gave pleasing results.

There is sufficient evidence that in old people delirium and confusion are reactions to general disease, just as they are in younger people.

In a series, 10 patients had delirium as their only nervous reaction, and 6 had delirium as a complication of another nervous or mental condition. The 10 patients with delirium only had an average age of 63. In only one case was there a history of marked difficulty of adjustment with other people and ordinary everyday circumstances. All the other cases had lived stable, successful, middle-class lives.

Seven of the patients had been under the care of physicians for chronic disorders of the body—arthritis, high blood pressure, cataracts and digestive disturbances; three had nervous ailments. All these patients had periods when their minds were clear.

In the six cases with cloudiness of consciousness and confusion, the onset came unnoticed. They had their symptoms for a much longer period and rarely were their minds clear.

What was the result of treatment by glucose injection? Of the ten cases of delirium and confusion due to infection, 9 cleared up completely when infection was removed. Of the six cases (nervous), all were relieved of their delirium but their underlying nervous ailment remained.

A recovery rate of 14 out of 16 cases offers convincing proof that damage to the brain or body is not the sole cause of the delirium and confusion. Delirium in old people often develops because infection is added to an individual with a poorly adjusted background.

Stamps In The News

Luxembourg has issued an extremely attractive set of "Caritas" (charity) semi-postals bearing drawings of three members of the ruling family.

In the past this set, issued every Christmas, has shown some person associated with Luxembourg's earlier history. The royal family is shown now because a set that was to be issued in January commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the reign of Grand Duchess Charlotte was postponed as a result of European developments.

Now six stamps have been received showing the royal family. A miniature sheet, showing the same designs with different values, was released December 20, but has not been received.

The six stamps are of three designs. Charlotte appears on the 70-centimes plus 20c and the 1.75 francs plus 1.50fr. Her husband, Felix is shown on the 35c plus 10c and the 1.25fr. plus 75c. Her son, Jean, appears on the 10c plus 5c and the 1fr. plus 25c.

The miniature block will show three stamps: Charlotte on the 5fr. Felix on the 3fr. and Jean on the 2fr.

The Reich in Poland

For postage in the occupied Polish territory, Germany has issued its current stamps of the Hindenburg medallion issue with a black overprint "Deutsche Post Osten" (German Mail East).

Hitherto the German stamps without the overprint were used as postage in Polish-occupied territory. Philatelists will recall that during the World War the German army of occupation in Poland overprinted the then current German stamps with "General Government Warsaw."

Japan's Vague Empire

A large airplane over a map of the Japanese Empire is depicted on Japan's new 12-sen airmail stamp, released on December 1.

The stamp, printed in deep blue, will be used on domestic airmail letters. Lettering across the plane and map means "Sample," and of course, is not a part of the stamp's markings.

A look at the map will show that the Japanese are indefinite about the extent of their continental empire. No boundary is indicated. Much of Russia's Siberian and un-conquered China is covered by this map of "Japan's Empire."

Name Changes

An old railroad town in Colorado found how alert stamp collectors are when its name was changed recently. When officials of Denver and the national park converted the town of West Portal from an old rail center to a winter sports mecca they decided to change its name to Winter Park.

There was no fanfare, yet stamp collectors throughout the world heard of the change and sent letters to the tiny mountain hamlet. Before the rush was over 50 big bags of letters had been handled. The stamp fans sought letters cancelled on the last day of the existence of West Portal and the first day that Winter Park officially came into existence.

In an unannounced move, Brazil has issued three stamps commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the Proclamation of the Republic.

The proclamation was issued on the overthrow of Emperor Dom

Pedro II in a revolt led by Marshal Deodoro de Fonseca.

On the 1200-reis chocolate stamp are portraits of Fonseca and the present President Vargas. An 800r gray-black shows Fonseca on horseback. A 400r deep green shows Benjamin Constant, a founder of the republic.

Dates for "Americans"

Dates for the first-day sales—along with colors and values—have been released by Postmaster General Farley for the "Famous Americans" series. The first stamp will appear January 29, 1940, the 35th and last on October 28.

One change was made; the Edward A. MacDowell stamp was shifted from New York to Peterboro, N. H.

House plants should be watered thoroughly, and then not watered again until the surface of the soil is somewhat dry. This should help to bring success to all indoor gardeners.

Members of Congress Asking to What Extent Executive Group Controls Rules Committee
By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)
Washington, Jan. 10.—To what extent is the rules committee of the House of Representatives subordinate to the control of the executive?

Members of Congress were asking this question today as they read with astonishment that Chairman Sabath of the House rules committee had taken up with President Roosevelt the problem of whether the Dies committee investigating un-American activities was to be continued.

When Representative Sabath left the White House, he was interviewed by the press and stated that further investigation by the Dies committee "would be waste of money." Asked when the matter would be decided, Mr. Sabath is quoted as having said: "I think President Roosevelt is not anxious for quick action."

Subsequently, when the newsmen met the President at his regular Tuesday conference, he declined to comment, saying this was a matter for the House to decide.

In view of the active interest taken by Mrs. Roosevelt in the proceedings of the Dies committee, and the condemnation which the President visited on the committee for exploring during Frank Murphy's last gubernatorial campaign the present attorney general's contention with sit-down strikes, it is no secret that the White House frowns on the Dies committee. But it is unusual for the executive to be reported as using his influence to stop a continuation of a congressional investigation, and it may well be that Chairman Sabath inadvertently disclosed the President's desires and that the conversation was not to have been made public.

The fact remains, however, that members of the House now know that the chairman of the rules committee discussed with the President how the House of Representatives—a supposedly independent body—was to exercise its prerogatives of inquiry. The executive is always consulted with respect to legislation, but the matter of the conduct of the House under its own rules, it is rare that executive advice is sought.

The principal crime of the Dies Committee is that it has stepped on the toes of the "left-wingers" and the "left-wing" organizations in Washington. Some of the committee's accusations and inferences and innuendoes have resulted in bitter protests, and there is no doubt that at times, following the customary abandon of a congressional committee, the reputations of innocent persons have been injured. But the objections coming from the left-wingers here would be in no way tenable if they had manifested any interest or uttered any protest when their own investigating committees, such as the Senate civil liberties committee, the Senate lobby committee and the House committee investigating income taxes, adopted virtually the same tactics of inference and innuendo.

In the case of the Senate lobby committee, headed by the then Senator Black, private telegrams were commandeered by the committee through the Federal Communications Commission, and although the court of appeals of the District of Columbia denounced such seizure of telegrams as a violation of law, Mr. Black made them public anyhow and later was elevated to the Supreme Court of the United States just the same.

Nothing that the Dies committee has done compares in unfairness with what the Black lobby committee did. The point can well be made, on the other hand, that two wrongs do not make a right, and it would be a constructive thing some day if congressional investigating committees were to put themselves under some sort of self-denying ordinance so that reputations of innocent persons would not be injured.

The administration itself was directly concerned with an incident of this kind when it submitted to a House committee several cases of alleged avoidance of income taxes and the impression was given to the public that evasion had occurred, the effort being made to create a distinction between legitimate deductions permitted by poorly worded laws and efforts to evade taxes.

The administration was importuned at the time to use the various cases without names so as to bring out the information desired, but no such consideration was given innocent taxpayers.

The Dies committee has done most of its work, but there are many people in the United States who still believe that organizations with subversive intent or individuals of the communist party or sympathizers therewith occupy important positions in the government. So long as these impressions exist, the tendency will be to insist on an investigation. The administration may find itself inadvertently stirring up support for the continuance of the Dies inquiry if it puts itself in the position of endeavoring to block the investigation.

Holy Name Committee Sets Breakfast Ticket Deadline

The committee having charge of the communion breakfast of St. Mary's Holy Name Society has set the time for closing of reservations as Friday evening. Reports indicate a very large turnout this year, probably exceeding the 350 mark of last year. The men of the society prepare and serve the breakfast themselves. Two old-time army cooks with their assistants prepare the food while a corps of 25 members act as waiters.

The members of the Holy Name Society will receive Holy Communion at the 8 o'clock Mass and join their prayers to those of other men in supplication for the peace of the world, as a token of loyalty to the Holy Father.

Immediately following the Mass the men will proceed to St. Mary's hall where the breakfast will be served. At 10 o'clock the program of music and speaking will begin, which will be broadcast over Station WKNY. The main speaker will be the Hon. Arthur O'Leary of Haverstraw.

One of the most talked-of practices in poultry management in recent years is that of out-of-season hatching. Many poultrymen now hatch chicks in fall, winter, and spring.

Sleep—It's Wonderful

Philipsburg, Pa.—Bernard Shaw of West Decatur, Pa., told police he slept soundly while his car bounded off a concrete bridge, broke a tree, struck a concrete sidewalk, tore part of a porch from a house and finally stalled after reversing its direction.

He escaped injury, but damage to the car alone was $125.

Sentences Self—Too Much

Baltimore—Criminal Court Judge George A. Solter was impressed with the candid story told by a prisoner pleading guilty to burglary.

"As a prudent and intelligent man," the judge said, "how much time do you think a judge should give for the crime you have committed?"

"At least a year," the prisoner said.

"I can't quite agree," Judge Solter replied. "Nine months in the house of correction."

Wages of Sin

Oklahoma City—Robert Peel,

17, playing hockey, stopped to admire Carmichael, the zoo's polar bear. Noticing the snow in the bear's cage was trampled, he started throwing some more in. Carmichael took a swipe at him, tore his right arm from elbow to wrist.

"Did I reap the wages of sin?" said Robert. "That bear sure made a pork chop out of my arm."

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

Chapter 33 Pat's Spell

ALLEN remained in this half dazed condition for several days; then gradually Sue won him from his bitter musing.

"You say yourself you and Pats haven't been happy, Allen. You're free now; free to live your own life. Doesn't that mean anything to you?"

"I'll never be free," was the somber answer. "Pats—Pats is part of me, somehow. I don't know whether I love her, or not; it doesn't seem to matter. But her life and mine seem so inextricably joined that it's like amputating a leg, an arm, to think of her gone."

"Habit," she diagnosed cheerfully. "I predict that in three months' time you'll be thanking your lucky stars she left you. The thing now for you to do," she said with a certain firmness she had found helpful in dealing with this new and vague Allen, "is to give up your apartment, store the furniture, and move to the Benton Club. You need a complete change of scene."

He shrank as though she had struck him.

"Sue, I can't! I mean that literally. I can't! There's something of Pats left in those rooms. I can remember how she looked, words she spoke—"

"Allen!" Sue spoke sharply. "Don't talk as if she were dead! She's very much alive—and living with Forest," she added deliberately. "You're being morbid about this, Buddy. It's not like you to act so, speak so. I don't believe," she went on with healthy scorn, "that you really loved Pats at all, even from the very first. I grant you there was a strong physical attraction, Pats is that kind of woman. But after that—habit, as I said, a chivalrous feeling or responsibility for her, worry over her extravagance—they've all combined to keep her foremost in your thoughts. You miss her just now the way you'd miss an aching tooth. But love her—no!"

He stared at her in bewilderment. "How do I know what love is, Sue? I had—for Pats—"

he groped among his thoughts, seeking words—"that tingling awareness that gives meaning to existence. Isn't that—surely that's—love?"

If he had not been so absorbed in his own perplexity he would have started at the change in his sister's face. "The tingling awareness that gives meaning to existence." Was there ever a better definition of passionate love? That was what she had felt—what she still felt when she permitted herself to remember—for Eric Faraday. Not for Bob, not for her husband and the father of her children, but for Eric, God help her!

She shrank back in her chair, an old longing possessing her. Eric with his gray eyes and high held head! Eric with his calm mastery of any situation in which he found himself! Eric against whose breast she had leaned, thrilling at the throbbing of his heart beneath her cheek, Eric, Eric!

She had been deeply content with Bob, she had even been happy. She had respected the steady growth of his strength, the courage and good humor with which he had learned to meet adversity. He was a strong man, now; not the gay, light-hearted young husband, untired, and inexperienced when she had married. Month after month, year after year, he had made himself into a man she could admire wholeheartedly. But there was never any "tingling awareness" of his presence. He did not "give meaning" to her life. They had jogged on comfortably together, proud of their children, making loyal allowance for each other's faults and weaknesses, considering their marriage eminently successful.

'Come To Me'

A dreadful blankness of spirit seized her. Allen, the brother she had pitied, the man whose life lay in ruins about him now, had had what she had been denied, the sort of marriage which gave meaning to existence. A cheap and common woman like Pats had the power to give men such happiness. It was the explanation of Forest Webb's incredible act.

Sue, huddled in her chair, knew that her marriage to Bob, her courageous flight to him from his business catastrophe, her summoning of his forces to start all over again, was a far finer thing than Pats could offer any man, or any man give Pats in return. Finer, better, braver; but strangely sorrowful and empty just now.

The knowledge made her patient with Allen; and all her tenderness, to endure the ten days he spent with her. Every ring of the telephone brought him panting to where the instrument waited. He paced the floor an hour before each expected mail delivery. At least once a day he called his office in St. Joseph to inquire if there had been any "message" for him.

"Pull yourself together, guy," Bob adjured him, not unkindly. "You're acting like a lovesick girl, you know."

"I suppose so." Bob shrugged. He considered Allen's case hopeless indeed if the taint could wring only that dull assent from him.

LYONSVILLE

Lyonville, Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley and son, Kenneth S., called on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Osterhout, Sunday.

William Rosson has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William Davis.

Miss Marie Trowbridge returned back on Wednesday to the Kingston High School after her holiday vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley and son, Kenneth S., called on Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and family, Friday evening past.

Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and family spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sherman, of Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oakley and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley and son, were entertained at the home

Both the Trentons were relieved when he returned to his work. Sue, dearly as she loved her brother, realized that his plight had set an old scar throbbing, had made necessary the re-winning of an old battle.

All during the day she could keep busy, cheerful. Getting Robert off to the kindergarten, seeing to small Susan's nap, her lunch, her laundry, listening enraptured to her baby voice experimenting with new combinations of words, filled the waking hours; but at night Eric came back, whether she lay staring with sleepless eyes at the ceiling, or dropped into uneasy slumber.

"Sue, come to me!" said his imperative voice again and again. "If you love me, come to me at once!"

No use to tell herself that she had not the least idea where Eric was now; that for all she knew to the contrary he was marrying, and the father of children. His column had long ago disappeared from the papers she saw. This might mean everything, or nothing; that he was devoting himself to more serious writing, that he was not writing at all; that he was dead.

Sometimes she pondered the acute influence Pats had had on her own life. If she hadn't married Allen, Sue herself in all probability would not have contracted that hasty marriage with Bob. It had been in Pats' over-heated, over-scented room that Sue and Eric had met. And now, in her final exit from the Davenport's lives, she had demolished, for the time being at least, the warm serenity of Sue's present.

For a light weight, she certainly has left her mark upon us," Sue told herself with a wry twist of her lips in the darkness.

Call From New York

AFTER Allen's departure, she threw herself more energetically into the round of her daily duties. She played an excellent game of bridge, and joined a club which accounted for an afternoon out of each fortnight. She went often to Kansas City to shop. She had Bob's business friends to dinner, devoting herself so closely to the food and service that they—for the most part paunchy old bachelors who had been too cautious to marry in their youth, and were now too fearful of being snapped up for their money—eyed him wistfully.

The children were her best defense against the corroding unhappiness which Allen's words had unsealed.

Baby Susan was an embryo poet. "She 'lisp in rhyme,'" her mother told Bob proudly.

"Great Scott! Don't let her!" he protested, alarmed.

But tiny Susan went on, as unconscious of the music of her speech as a bird is of the beauty of its song.

"Muvver and bruvver, and love with his gray eyes and high held head! Eric with his calm mastery of any situation in which he found himself! Eric against whose breast she had leaned, thrilling at the throbbing of his heart beneath her cheek, Eric, Eric!"

She had been deeply content with Bob, she had even been happy. She had respected the steady growth of his strength, the courage and good humor with which he had learned to meet adversity. He was a strong man, now; not the gay, light-hearted young husband, untired, and inexperienced when she had married. Month after month, year after year, he had made himself into a man she could admire wholeheartedly. But there was never any "tingling awareness" of his presence. He did not "give meaning" to her life. They had jogged on comfortably together, proud of their children, making loyal allowance for each other's faults and weaknesses, considering their marriage eminently successful.

THE MASTER MIND?

Father Sass Is Santa at Philly

One of the Philadelphia newspapers recently carried a human interest story about the activities of the Rev. Charles Sass, 74-year-old rector of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Lehigh, Pa., at Christmas time. Father Sass is a brother of John Sass of 54 East Pierpont street, and a former resident of Kingston.

Father Sass, when a youth worked on the coal dock on the Rondout creek to raise money to be used to pay his tuition through college, and read his first Mass in St. Peter's Church on Wurts street in 1897.

The story in the Philadelphia newspaper, under a Lehigh, Pa. date line, read in part as follows: "There's a whirling snowstorm here, but to 450 poor children it's just something to romp in because Santa Claus' first assistant has bought them all new winter togs."

To some of them the Rev. Charles Sass is not first assistant, but Santa Claus himself (sans whiskers).

How else could he walk down the street with all those boys and girls, send them into stores in the shopping district and tell clerks to "give them clothes and warm ones?"

"During most of his 16 years at the church, Father Sass has gathered the children of the poor and outfitted them for the winter. Formerly his guests never exceeded 150, but this Christmas the number tripled."

"Textile mills, moving to the south, have left an unemployment problem behind, and last Sunday when Father Sass announced from the pulpit that he was ready again to provide clothing, word spread like wildfire."

"Yesterday Father Sass and his assistant rector, met a party of children at the parish house and started to the shopping center. The children were in double column behind the smiling priest, jauntily swinging his cane as he led the march."

"The column grew as youngsters ranging from 5 to 13—Protestants as well as Catholics—tagged along. Father Sass did not know who they were, whether they were poor or not, but his smile widened."

"Toddlers got not only clothing but candy."

"No one was happier than Father Sass."

A standard cord of wood has about the same heating value as a ton of coal.

Wanted
A man for hard work and rapid promotion who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants.

A man who is neat in appearance and does not sulk for an hour's overtime in an emergency.

A man who listens carefully when he is spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure carrying out instructions.

A man who moves quickly and makes little noise.

A man who is cheerful, courteous to everyone, and determined to "make good."

"Guard your tongue and your thinking if you would be a good war time citizen," advised Miss Winifred Kidd, former dean of women of Queens University. To which might be added: Keep your heart and your purse in the right place in responding to worthy appeals.

Diner—Waiter, bring me a plate of hash.
Waiter (telling to kitchen)—Gentleman wants to take a chance!

Second Diner—Waiter, I'll have some of the same.
Waiter (calling to kitchen)—Another sport.

One Friend
I think I'm very fortunate, because I have a friend.

I know one person who is true—of whom I can depend.

We speak so glibly of our friends, but I think friends are rare; I mean the ones who cling when we're disgraced—or in despair.

A person who would sympathize if others—all-forsake you! The one who'd understand your acts though all the rest mistake you.

If any one knows all your faults, and still is loyal—true, You're blest indeed, for friends are scarce; and Fate's been kind to you.—Lyla Myers.

Prospective Employer—Do you think you know enough to be useful to this office?
Boy—Know enough? Why I left my last place because the boss said I knew too much.

Sandy—You're always grumbling. Why can't you be satisfied with your lot?
Jack—Because I haven't got a lot.

There is one kind of success that doesn't amount to much. . . . A young man who has attained social success tried to borrow 50 cents from us today. . . . He was a failure in that effort.

Legislature Proposes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (AP)—Liberalization of New York's unemployment insurance law, including a provision for benefits to persons who lost their jobs because of a strike or lockout, is before the Legislature today.

Democratic Assemblyman John J. Walsh, Oneida county, urged the lawmakers to:

- Extend the provisions to cover the employer of one or more persons instead of at least four as at present.
- Extend the maximum benefits from 13 to 16 weeks.
- Require one week unemployment instead of three as at present for benefit eligibility.

Meantime, the lawmakers awaited a report of Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller on feasibility of extending benefits to the partially unemployed and of the

Endeavor Group Names Officers

At the recent annual election meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, Miss Audrey Greene of Howland avenue was elected president to succeed Charles Gumaer. Francis Skerritt, a former president, was named vice president. Miss Hazel Post was elected secretary, while Miss Norma R. Garrison, after sending in her declination for the president's post, was elected treasurer.

Instead of the usual custom of having the president appoint the various cabinet members this year, the organization as a whole took part in the balloting for the election of the cabinet department. The following were selected: Lookout committee, Norma Garrison; Audrey Greene, Francis Skerritt and Hazel Post; social committee, Mae Ross; program and music committees, Charles Gumaer; and service committee, Irwin Thomas.

The Baptist convention to be held in Poughkeepsie January 17, was discussed. The opening session will start at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. Further information may be obtained from Doris Harvey or Audrey Greene. If enough members plan to attend, arrangements will be made to secure ample transportation by car.

Last Sunday evening the regular worship and devotional meeting was led by Norma Garrison, who used as her topic "New Year Resolutions." Another meeting is scheduled for Sunday at 6:30 o'clock.

New Officers to Be Named By Veterans of Company M

The annual meeting and election of officers of Company M Veterans' Association, for the year 1940 will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the New York state armory on Manor avenue. Several prominent speakers are expected to be present to address the veterans. After the meeting refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

May Quit System

San Francisco, Jan. 10 (AP)—The possibility that the huge Bank of America might withdraw from the national banking system was placed before stockholders today by L. M. Giannini, president, who bitterly assailed Treasury Secretary Morgenthau for "arbitrary and illegal" interference in the bank's affairs. Giannini, addressing stockholders who cheered him, affirmed his intention of continuing present policies despite government agencies which he said had "harmed" the institution, "we think unjustly."

Bergan Confirms Reports on Grants By Commissioners

Justice Francis Bergan has confirmed the sixth separate report of Commissioners of Appraisal John F. Wadlin, Edward Glynn and H. Lynden Hatch, commissioners of appraisal appointed to hear claims arising along the upper Esopus creek by reason of the use of the creek by the City of New York for conveying Gilboa reservoir waters to the Ashokan. This commission is known as Esopus Creek Section. The report was moved for confirmation at special term on December 8 at Albany. The report was made by the commission on December 21, 1939.

Objection was made to confirmation of certain awards when the city moved for confirmation.

Henry R. Bright and Vincent G. Connelly appeared for the City of New York for the motion and Edward F. Joyce, Jr., appeared in opposition for claimants.

Justice Bergan has confirmed the report and in so doing hands down a memorandum in which he says that unless awards are "obviously wrong, or unless it is such as to shock the sense of justice of the court" awards should be confirmed and the court should not cause a review since the commissioners of appraisal have more means of determining the fairness of an award than a justice. He holds that the awards were not made in error and appear to be adequate.

Awards confirmed are that in Parcel 11, Winifred Whitney O'Neill and Joseph D. Boyd, individually and as administrator of the estate of Edythe Whitney Boyd, each a half interest. The award was $450 for damages and $1,250 for the right in perpetuity. Expenses allowed were $180. The claimant pleaded that the use of the land by the city had created an island in the property separating 16 acres from the main farm of 310 acres. The commission held the flood in 1933 had caused the separation when the creek changed its course.

The award in Parcel 64-a, that of Grace Weigdr, of $265 for damage and $600 for the right in perpetuity together with interest and $162 expenses is affirmed. There was no objection on the part of the city to the award although it was the contention of the city that the award was too great in view of the fact that the creek deviated from its course during flood times in 1933 and the damage done was not wholly because the city used the creek for Gilboa water. The claimant objected to confirmation on the grounds the award was too small.

The award to Jerome S. Newman, parcel 67, is also affirmed. The commissioners allowed $170 for damages and $180 for the case for damages together with interest and $36 expenses. The court holds that testimony indicated that the parcel was bought in 1923 for $1,000 and a portion had subsequently been transferred. The property not put to any practical use between 1924 and 1936 could not be damaged to any substantial sum, the court held, and confirmed the award.

In the matter of parcel 15, Margaret Roosa, claimant, an award of $115 for damages and $250 for an easement together with $72 expenses likewise was confirmed by the court. The court holds that the buildings are from 10 to 15 feet above the creek and there had been no direct damage to the buildings and that the buildings constitute the greater part of the value of the property. Damage to landscape through loss of trees is pleaded as well as damage to fishing. The court held that while perhaps a larger award might have been made because of diminished natural beauty of the shore line, the award seems reasonable and the "conclusion of the commissioners, who are better able than the court to make adequate determination of the amount of damage will not be disturbed."

The court ruled that the order of confirmation of the awards may be submitted by the corporation counsel.

College Women Hear Vassar Instructor

The University Extension Committee of the Kingston College Women's Club presented Miss Ruth Malley, a member of the department of eugenics at Vassar College, Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the club held at the Parish Hall of St. John's Episcopal Church.

Miss Malley discussed the meaning of the word "eugenics" as it is used at Vassar College. The word was coined in 1910 by a Vassar graduate and meant the application of the arts and sciences to the betterment of living.

The pioneer work in the scientific study of homemaking at Vassar College has been done through the department of eugenics. Homemaking at Vassar differs from homemaking in a home economics department, Miss Malley explained, in that at Vassar the students study nutrition, psychology, economic and labor problems and the science of diet.

In the senior year at Vassar the eugenics major makes a special study of such topics as occupational therapy for children, birth control as a public health, economic and social problem, or the relation of housing to child delinquency. The nursery school at Vassar and one in Poughkeepsie serve as laboratories for the child study majors.

Miss Malley then spoke of the graduate program at the summer sessions. Here the practical work is introduced and the program focuses itself on the women's needs, with emphasis on child development and home management. The graduate school will next year present six two weeks' sessions on nutrition and growth, ethics and religion, conservation of natural resources, propaganda, consumer education and education for political action.

The experimental stages through which progressive education has passed also were discussed by Miss Malley Tuesday evening. She said that the idea was at first that the teacher should fade into the background as much as possible. The second trend was toward child expression. The third change was to see the child as a whole and the recent trend is toward seeing the child as a whole as well as part of his environment.

She also emphasized the fact that the children themselves have not been hindered in any way during these experimental changes.

A short business meeting preceded the program. Miss Gladys Nickerson, chairman of the membership committee, presented the name of Miss Gertrude Henry, A. B. Cornell University, as a candidate for active membership. Miss Henry was unanimously elected.

The annual banquet of the club will be held February 14 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Announcements were also made of the meeting of the Book Group on January 31, at the home of Mrs. Herbert Fister and of the Current Events meeting February 8, at the home of Mrs. John L. MacKinnon.

A social hour followed the meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth LeFever, Mrs. Cornelius Hardin, Mrs. Ashton Hart, Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, Mrs. Hubert Hoderath, Mrs. Irwin Jennings, Mrs. Felix Katz, Miss Ione Kinade, Miss Dorothy Kuehn and Mrs. Albert Kurdt.

Girls' Friendly Meeting

Mrs. King based her paper on Francis "Golden Bough" and showed how a number of early pagan customs and religious observances have been absorbed by Christianity and adopted as a basis for many of its practices.

Mrs. King also read Matthew Arnold's translation of one of "The Hieroglyphs" in which two Syracusan women are in conversation at the ceremonies connected with the festival of Adonis at Alexandria, Egypt.

Preceding the meeting the hostess served tea assisted by Miss Louise van Hovenberg, who poured.

Crude Table Manners
Alien Friends

Will this young man be a popular dinner guest? Not when he shows such poor manners as stacking the dishes. Next he'll shove them aside, use them for an ash tray!

It's so simple to learn the fine points of etiquette there's really no excuse for such blunders.

And, when you have finished with knife and fork, put them side by side on your plate—not crossed like swords.

Even little accidents don't disturb your poise when you are up on etiquette.

What to do if you get a fish-bone in your mouth? Remove it inconspicuously with your fingers. If you drop a spoon, let the waiter pick it up. If you find you have used the wrong silver, haven't the right piece for the dish before you, permissible to use what you have.

Make a good impression wherever you dine! Our 32-page booklet gives correct usage for formal and informal dinners, for restaurants, clubs. Tells how to eat unusual foods, explains etiquette for teas, buffet suppers.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of GOOD TABLE MANNERS to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Rules Between Friends

Dear Mrs. Post: At the time we moved here several months ago, we had so much to do in a hurry that I had very little chance to go to say goodbye to our friends. Now that I'm settled here and have had more time to think about it, I've just been wondering if our friends back home should not have made more effort to say goodbye to us? I'd like to know the rule, if there is one?

Answer: There is a definite rule applying to strangers but not to intimate friends. In other words, when strangers leave they are expected to pay a goodbye visit or send P.P.C. cards to those who have shown them hospitality. This courtesy is due especially to those whose hospitality they have not been able to return. But we are all supposed to try to go and say goodbye to our friends who are leaving—or who are going on a journey. Perhaps we go to see them at home, or perhaps we go to the steamer or the train, or even to the air port to see them off.

Addressing Business Letters

Dear Mrs. Post: If a company has the name of a woman, for example, Ethel M. Blank Associates, what is the salutation of a letter addressed to the company?

Answer: If the letterhead is distinctly feminine—such as that of a woman's club—or if you know definitely that the associates of Ethel M. Blank are all women, you write "Dear Madams." If there is any doubt whatsoever, it is better form to write "Dear Sirs" instead.

The Manners of a Gentleman

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) Is it not bad manners for a gentleman to leave one lady in the party sitting alone at a restaurant table? The other evening my husband was dancing with an unescorted member of our group and there were several others of our friends sitting with me when he left the table to dance. In a little while, however, these others drifted out on the dance floor and I found myself alone. (b) Could I have gone visiting at other tables had this been a private dance instead of simply a private party at a hotel dance?

Answer: (a) Although it is true that those who danced last night have waited for one couple to come back, instead of leaving you alone, there is nothing unusual or conspicuous in the appearance of a woman sitting for a short while alone at a table, and for this reason this situation should not have been embarrassing to you, unless

Donations for Finnish Relief Are Lagging

While there appears to be plenty of sympathy for the plight of the Finnish people in the hardships they are undergoing in their unequal struggle against Russia, and admiration for the heroic resistance they are showing, these feelings are not being translated into cash, so far as the Finnish relief fund of the Ulster county chapter, American Red Cross, is concerned, according to chairman G. D. B. Hasbrouck.

The judge believes that the chief reason for this condition is that the Finnish relief appeal, coming at the same time as the annual Red Cross membership drive, resulted in a large extent overlooked. The Finnish relief fund is a special fund, administered by a department of American Red Cross. Up to today contributions for this purpose sent in to Red Cross headquarters in Kingston have been as follows:

Duncan of New York city, Ralph Gregory of Kingston and James J. Foreman of Delhi. The first meeting of the commission for organization will be held at the hearing rooms of the City of New York in Kingston, today.

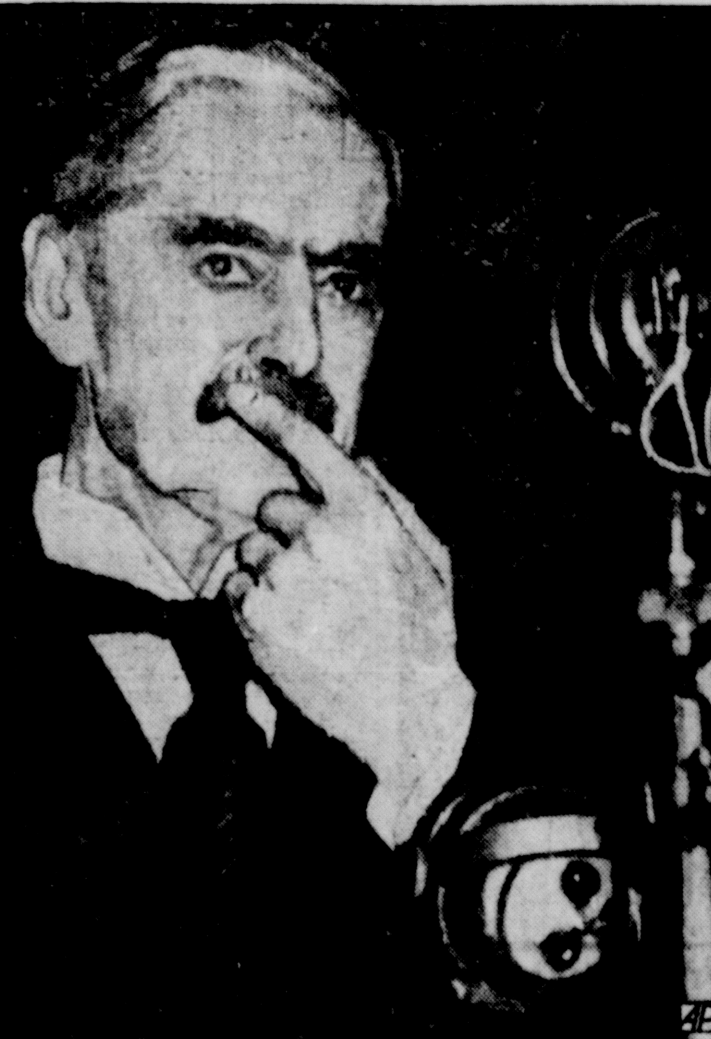

Application for the appointment of commissioners was made to Justice Schirick on December 29 by motion of Henry R. Bright, appearing for the Corporation Counsel's office of the city of New York.

At a meeting first of the year the directors declared a dividend on stock at the rate of three per cent, payable January 15.

Warns of 'Calm Before the Storm'

Prime Minister Chamberlain is shown in this radiophoto delivering his militant address in which he warned the British empire that lack of war activity has been "the calm before the storm." Choked with emotion, Chamberlain also declared that the British-French alliance should become permanent in the interests of "peaceful reconstruction" after the war is over. He spoke in London.

Hi-Y Names Club For Bookwalter

In their first meeting since the untimely death of their advisor, Ellis T. Bookwalter, the Hi-Y Club, at the suggestion of E. MacConnell, Jr., president of the club, unanimously voted to change the name of the club from Alpha Chapter of Hi-Y to The Ellis T. Bookwalter Chapter of Hi-Y.

Mr. Bookwalter was deeply interested in the work of the Hi-Y Club and gave much of his time and energy promoting the best interests of this group. The boys deeply feel the tragic loss of their friend and as a gesture of tribute to him the change of name was voted.

Among other things discussed at the first meeting of the New Year were the coming group discussion of "The War in Europe and the United States' place in the World of War," to be held on February 5, and the discussion of a group trip to Washington during spring vacation. Plans are very indefinite as yet, but the boys are interested in the project.

The next meeting of the group will be turned over to a social meeting with the Ellis T. Bookwalter Chapter acting as hosts to the Saugerties Chapter.

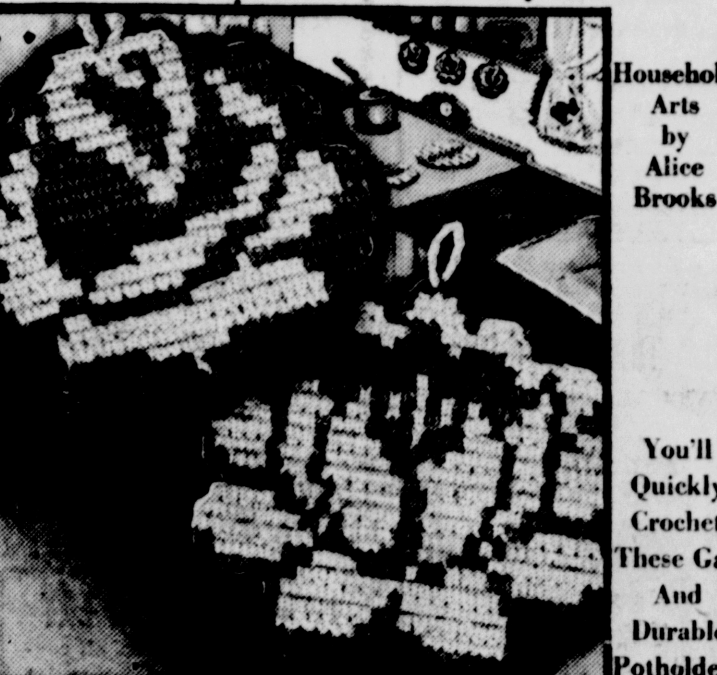

A sporting wager was made with the Newburgh Chapter hinging upon the results of the next Newburgh-Kingston basketball game. If Kingston loses, the local chapter will entertain the Newburgh chapter and if Newburgh loses, Newburgh will entertain the local group.

Protests Against Naming Murphy

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Senator Burke (D-Neb.) said today that a "number" of protests against appointment of Attorney General Frank Murphy as an associate justice of the Supreme Court had been received by the Senate judiciary committee.

Burke is chairman of the judiciary subcommittee appointed to act on the Murphy appointment.

"I will call the subcommittee together tomorrow," Burke said. "If there is any substance to these complaints we probably will conduct a hearing."

The protests, he said, included letters and telegrams which would be examined by the subcommittee before deciding on hearings.

The nomination of James H. R. Cromwell, husband of wealthy Doris Duke, to be minister to Canada, was approved today by the Senate foreign relations committee.

Other nominations submitted by President Roosevelt last week, among them Charles Edison to be secretary of the navy, won approval of various committees and were sent to the Senate for final action.

Cromwell would succeed Daniel C. Roper and Edison, son of the late Thomas A. Edison, would succeed the late Claude A. Swanson.

The Senate finance committee approved the nomination of Daniel W. Bell to be under secretary of the Treasury.

Chairman Hughes (D-Del.) announced that his judiciary subcommittee had tentatively approved Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania to be solicitor general.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) said the Senate naval affairs committee, which acted on the Edison nomination, also would report favorably today the nominations of Rear Admiral Samuel M. Rob-

Client Gets $600 Award in His Case Against Attorney

George C. Mathieson of Pateron, N. J., was awarded $600 in Supreme Court Tuesday by Justice Harry E. Schirick before whom an action for assault had been tried. Plaintiff claimed the defendant DuBois Gillette, New Paltz, attorney, had struck him on the head with a flashlight on July 4, 1939, when the plaintiff complained that he had been unable to get action in a divorce suit which he had employed Gillette to handle. Seven stitches closed the wound and Mathieson brought action for assault.

There was no defense entered and after the testimony of Mathieson, a freeman who witnessed the assault and Dr. Virgil DeWitt the court awarded the plaintiff $600. The assault took place at a 4 o'clock in the morning fire in the village of New Paltz.

File Is Compiled

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The nation's G-men have compiled an extensive file, Congress learned today, of individuals and organizations engaged in subversive or espionage activities and could identify them swiftly in event of war. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, told a House appropriations subcommittee that a special intelligence division created when the European war broke out had compiled "extensive indices" of all persons engaged in "any activities that are possibly detrimental to the internal security of the United States."

inson to be chief of the navy's bureau of engineering and Rear Admiral Alexander H. Van Keuren to be chief of the bureau of construction and repair.

Other nominations approved unanimously by the foreign relations committee:

Breckinridge Long of Missouri to be assistant secretary of state. George S. Messersmith of Delaware to be ambassador to Cuba. John Cudahy, of Wisconsin, to be ambassador to Belgium.

R. Henry Norweb of Ohio to be minister to Peru.

Robert M. Scotten of Michigan to be minister to the Dominican Republic.

Clarence E. Gauss of Connecticut to be minister to Australia, a newly created post.

Y.M.C.A. Bulldogs Smother Montgomery Quintet by 61 to 51

Krum, Bock Are Leading Scorers For Local Five

McCluskeymen Take Early Advantage and Hold the Edge Throughout Game at the 'Y'

In one of the fastest games ever played on the Y. M. C. A. basketball court, the Bulldogs defeated Montgomery last night, 61-51, as Hank Krum, Eddie Bock and Andy Dykes featured in the scoring roles.

Taking an 11-8 advantage in the first quarter, the Bulldogs stayed in the van for the remainder of the contest, finishing 10 points ahead of the Orange county court aces.

Manager Weldon McCluskey of the 'Y' team substituted generously and kept fresh men in the battle all the way, which was one factor in the overthrow of the highly touted Montgomery club.

Tommy Weems opened the fray with a foul for the Bulldogs and Duffus and Bettinger tallied from the free throw stripe for the visiting five. Then Van Etten came through with a deuce to put the local basketballers on the glory road for the rest of the night.

In the second period, Hank Krum and Eddie Bock sparked the Bulldogs. Krum contributed two fouls, came through with a pushup, a one-handed toss and a nice pivot double. Bock tallied twice from the floor and broke through for a pushup. Kingston was ahead 26-21 at the intermission.

It was Krum, Bock and Barthel who made it interesting for the spectators in the third quarter, which ended 41-34 in favor of Kingston.

Bruce opened the fourth period with a pair of two-pointers and Rhymer zoomed in under the basket to put the Bulldogs ahead 47-34. Montgomery raised for a spell but the McCluskey clan cut loose again and were going strong at the finish.

In the preliminary, the Trojans took over the Combinations, 37-25, as Cooper and Canfield showed the way in point making. Sheehan and Zadany collaborated for 10 of the Combinations' points.

Joe Burk Gets Sullivan Award

Bridgeboro, N. J., Jan. 10 (AP).—Sorrel-thatched Joe Burk, famed sculler and right now a fruit farmer, thinks Tennist Alice Marble deserved the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy.

The unassuming oarsman was out in the orchard pruning trees when the news reached him yesterday that he was winner of the coveted award.

"Oh, did I get it?" said the victor in the diamond skulls at the 1938 and 1939 Royal Henley regattas, "but I thought Alice Marble would get it. I think she deserved it. After all, she won everything else in her line."

The first oarsman to join the select circle of Sullivan award winners says he has no intention of touching an oar until spring.

A tribunal of 600 top-ranking sports leaders chose Burk for the accolade named for the man who headed the American Athletic Union prior to his death in 1914.

The famed sculler, who the committee acclaimed as a "natural" unaffected and unspoiled example of fine American manhood, compiled 1063 points on a 5-3-1 basis to win a comfortable margin from Charles Fenske, Wisconsin, miler, and Alice Marble, national and Wimbledon tennis champion.

Grapplers Hold First Workout

The wrestling class started by Don Taylor, 1939 National A. A. U. champion in the 135-pound class held its first workout at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Taylor, who captained the University of Pennsylvania bone crushers while attending that school, is shown putting the pressure on Chet Baltz, Jr., former captain of the St. Lawrence University team. Sid Lutzin, who participated in the mat sport at Tufts; Larry Glennon, Colorado U. matter, and Seymour Coutant, Syracuse U. gripper, watch the proceedings. The wrestling class is open for members, and anyone desiring to join is advised to register at the desk in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A.

Conn and Cooper Fight Tonight

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Watching Billy Conn, the steel city sock maker, in his Madison Square Garden fight tonight will be something like seeing Hamlet in a tuxedo.

Having climbed the lightweight ladder until no more rungs were left, the Pittsburgh powerhouse decided to become a heavyweight. Not because he liked to fight bigger guys, but because there is more money in that division.

So Billy, the light-heavyweight king, signed as a heavyweight to meet Steve Dudas, a veteran trial horse, but that worthy caught an attack of la grippe. So Billy must try out his heavier artillery on Henry Cooper of Brooklyn. A husky 190-pounder, Cooper has no more imagination than a clock, but possesses a very good straight left hand punch.

Actually the Pittsburgher, after remaining out of the ring since last November, has gained enough weight to move up a class, although he will weigh only a pound over the light-heavyweight limit of 175 and some four pounds over his best fighting weight in that class.

Nearly everyone, except the immediate members of the Cooper clan, think Conn will win handsly.

Columbia, Harvard and Yale Play in 'Ivy League' Tonight

New York, Jan. 10 (AP).—Three eastern intercollegiate league basketball teams—Columbia, Harvard and Yale—get their first taste of "Ivy League" competition tonight, and, at the same time, the fans may get some indication of how the race will shape up.

So far, there has been only one league game. The "dark horse" Pennsylvania team turned back Cornell by one point last Saturday.

Tonight, the Quakers play Yale, another team whose status is rather uncertain, on the Ellis court. Harvard and Columbia meet at New York in the other league contest.

Yale was sixth in the seven-team league last season, but has beaten three preliminary rivals, including a fair Fordham team, this season

Children Keep Lonely Vigil Over Dead Mother

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Seven-year-old Anthony Pizarro and his five-year-old sister, Judith, thought their mother was asleep Sunday when she lay still on her bed in their tiny East Second street apartment after complaining of a pain in her chest.

Keeping a lonely vigil—their father, Fernando, is on a freighter bound for Manila—they played quietly in the kitchen, met callers with a whispered "Mama's asleep," and slept in the bed beside their mother for two nights. They prepared their own scanty meals of milk and cereal, and Anthony stayed home from school.

His teacher, worried over his absence, went to the apartment yesterday. When she and a neighbor entered the Pizarro apartment they found Mrs. Pizarro dead. A physician said she had died of heart disease at least 48 hours before.

Tells of Navy's Errors

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—Congress heard from the navy's chief engineer today that the navy had been making mistakes in shipbuilding for 30 years similar to those which gave the newest destroyers a tendency toward top-heaviness. Rear Admiral E. M. Robinson, chief of the Bureau of Engineering, told a house appropriations subcommittee the defects in the destroyers' stability had been corrected for about one-seventh of one per cent of the ships' total cost, and that they now are "all right in every way."

Pleads Guilty

New York, Jan. 10 (AP)—Nicholas Dozenich, one of five Communists indicted in the government's investigation of fraudulent passports, pleaded guilty today in federal court. House Approves Arms Outlay trality patrol and $17,882,862 for operation of patrol craft, both sea and air.

One of the heaviest of the army appropriations was $28,200,000 for training, chiefly for the concentration of five regular army stream-lined divisions in the south and their training, first separately as divisions and then together as two army corps.

The FBI money would be used largely to employ and equip 155 more G-men in connection with ferreting out spies.

The Coast Guard would use its appropriation chiefly for recommissioning and manning inactive vessels for the neutrality patrol, which one official told the committee had been extended as far out as 800 miles east of Cape Cod.

Big lumps of the money for the army, navy and Coast Guard would go for feeding, clothing, equipping and in some cases housing the reinforced forces.

One of the larger cuts was $500,000 from $7,500,000 requested by the navy for carrying out its building program at shore stations.

Torrent of Debate

Washington, Jan. 10 (AP)—The anti-lynching bill was wrapped up for House passage today in a torrent of debate over who—if anyone—is playing politics with the negro vote.

The Democrats said it was the Republicans; the Republicans said it was the Democrats. Despite the argument among supporters of the bill, there was no doubt that it would pass with votes to spare by the end of the day.

The Senate, where leaders are not exactly happy over the arrival of the filibuster-provoking anti-lynch bill, gave its attention to congressional study of federal finances proposed by Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) of the Senate finance committee.

Sure of Senate approval, the Harrison proposal apparently is doomed to a House pigeon-hole chiefly because the projected inquiry would delay House consideration of appropriation bills. House leaders, ignoring the Senate, plan to call up the first of the money measures tomorrow.

In the anti-lynching quarrel, the partisan row was stirred yesterday by a remark of Rep. Mitchell (D., Ill.), the only negro in Congress, that Republicans were "trying to buy back the negro vote with this bill."

Makes Plea

Despite his attack on Republican supporters of the measure, Mitchell made an impassioned plea for its adoption.

Rep. Secombe (R., Ohio) entered the argument by reading a letter which he said Mitchell wrote to a constituent last fall. The letter said Mitchell would be glad to take up some matter with WPA provided the constituent followed "customary" procedure by getting a letter from his ward committeeman.

On the basis of that document, Secombe asked the House to judge "who is trying to play Santa Claus and who is not; who is trying to buy the negro votes and who is not."

The bill provides federal fines and imprisonment for peace officers who fail to stop lynchings.

The House debate did not prevent the naval affairs committee from continuing its questioning of officials on the expanded defense program. Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, told the committee yesterday that the navy had included in its estimates $4,000,000 for harbor improvements at Guam.

The controversial item was rejected by Congress last year, and a repetition of the fight appeared likely.

Preston Heads Local Aviators

Edwin M. Preston was elected president of Kingston Chapter of the New York State Aviation Association at the annual meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of A. M. van Gelder, on Van Buren street.

The other officers elected were: Vice president, Leo Boice, secretary, Francis Dobie, and treasurer, Kenneth Hughes. Three new members were welcomed into the chapter. They were Charles Bach, Charles Latchen and Richard Jones.

The chapter made plans for preparing direction signs for the convenience of those using the airways over the city directing the way to the seaplane base at Kingston Point, and also to the Kingston airport.

The chapter plans to locate a roof of a building in the city that can be used on which to paint the words "Kingston" together with a direction finder pointing north for the benefit of pilots flying over the city.

The next chapter meeting will be held in the van Gelder home on January 19.

Abbott Is Held For Grand Jury

Charles A. Abbott, 53, of 6 Center street, waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury when his case came up in police court today for a hearing before Judge Matthew V. Cahill. Bail is to be fixed by the county court.

Mr. Abbott is charged with grand larceny in the first degree. He was arrested on complaint of Herman Reuner, monument manufacturer of this city, who charges Mr. Abbott with appropriating a sum in excess of $500 to his own use.

Waves Battering California Coast

Los Angeles, Jan. 10 (AP)—Damage estimates approached the $100,000 mark today from waves as high as 25 feet, stirred up by some mysterious submarine force, which battered southern California's coastline for nearly 100 miles.

Heaviest loss, estimated unofficially at nearly $50,000, was reported from the Santa Barbara sector, where beach homes were pounded and in some cases destroyed, a pier collapsed and a $15,000 oil derrick tumbled into the sea. A $100,000 mansion was undermined and cracking.

At Manhattan Beach, the waves splintered a 150-foot section of the municipal pier, with damage placed at $10,000. At Redondo Beach, 1500 feet of ocean front railing was smashed. Water rolled over a waterfront street in Venice and swept away sections of beach. A pier and oil company loading wharf at El Segundo were damaged. Boardwalks at various points suffered.

Weather Bureau predictions of a new storm by tomorrow caused fears of further loss.

HOME BUREAU

Kingston Unit

Kingston Unit of Home Bureau met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bertrand, 165 Bruyn avenue. A lesson on "Personality" was given with Mrs. Edward Welch the leader. Members besides Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. Welch who were present were Mrs. Charles Seligman, Mrs. Louis Beeres, Mrs. E. A. Buddenhagen, Mrs. E. J. Kelly, Mrs. Harry J. Yale, Mrs. George Quinette, Mrs. A. L. Berwin and Mrs. Albert Cook. Following the discussion tea was served by the hostess.

One Degree Below

For the second time this winter the official city thermometer recorded subzero weather when at 1:45 o'clock this morning the mercury dropped to a low of 1 degree below. A similar recording was on Sunday, January 7, when at 7:55 o'clock that morning the mercury touched one below zero. At midnight the official city thermometer recorded 3 above zero and it gradually grew colder during the early morning hours today.

Group to Rehearse

The Kingston Community Chorus will hold an important business and rehearsal meeting this evening at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. A definite date for the spring concert will be set and various activities and plans for the year's program will be discussed. There are still vacancies in all of the parts and all young people between the ages of 18 and 30 who are interested in singing are urged to attend.

TOMMY AND 'DEAR ALBEN' CONVERSE

Among the prominent diners at the Democratic Jackson Day celebration in Washington were Tommy Corcoran, (left) inner circle New Dealer and special counsel for the RFC, and Senator Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.), majority leader, shown here in animated conversation.

WHAT STARTED THE ARGUMENT

Elias Miller, in Boston, looks over a 3-time fork as compared with a 1-time fork, upon which a pollock is spread, after fish handlers at Boston's great fish pier agreed to use the 1-time device in order to avert a strike. Handlers had objected to 1-time forks as slowing down the number of fish they could handle, whereas, health officials objected to the 3-time variety on ground they punctured fish excessively.

T. F. Everett New Grant Assistant

T. F. Everett, formerly of the Newark store, has been appointed assistant manager of the local W. T. Grant Company store, it was announced today by Philip Ramsey, manager.

Like all Grant men in training for executive positions, Mr. Everett is transferred from store to store to help broaden his experience in all the different sizes of stores and to better understand the needs of the various communities. He started at the bottom and earned his promotions on merit. It is one of the policies of the Grant organization, consisting of 484 stores from coast to coast, that all promotions are made from within the company.

Scratches on furniture, if not too deep, may be touched with ordinary iodine and then polished. A good polish may be made by mixing equal parts of linseed oil, turpentine and white vinegar.

The accident was investigated by Officer Lemuel Howard of the police department who ascertained that shortly before Mr. Brigham fell he had been walking along Wall street with John Saxe, president of the State of New York National Bank, and they separated at the corner and Mr. Brigham started to walk toward his parked automobile.
